

HUTCH & HAMILTON EXCERPT (2021)

Good evening and thanks (name of buyer's) for having me in your backyard!
I'm Hutch & I'm in Hamilton.

These backyard shows are my first in person performances in two years.

People at the beginning of the pandemic kept saying,

"You must be writing SO much, there is just SO much material!"

I was like, bugger off! What is so funny?

Systemic Racism?

Hilarious.

Dismantlement of an already tenuous Democracy?

Comedy Gold!

Fascism? Did you say fascism?

What a knee slapper!

Covid should have been the least of our problems!

Covid did provide numerous, "I never thought in my lifetime", moments.

I never thought in my lifetime, people would name drop vaccines, you encountered this?

"So, hey, what'd you get?" Asking because they want to brag about their superior vaccine!

I don't ask because I got AZ. You can't gloat with AstraZeneca!

I never thought in my lifetime that the word binge would be used so positively,

"Binged it all! Twenty-six hours of solid binging! I binged so hard this weekend! Eight seasons straight, my eyes are binge bleeding!"

I remember when binging was considered a bad thing.

And never in my wildest dreams, did I think the plastic produce bags at the grocery store would almost lead to a mental breakdown. (Demonstrate)

I never thought a pandemic would force me to teach online high school.

It was exhausting, you can't force students to turn on their cameras, so of course, none of them do.

Avatars. This is what my students looked like in 2021.

Pokémon, Little Naas X, Captain America, manicured hands holding roses?

I helped them get an English credit yet have no idea what they look like!

Never in my lifetime.
